ROXIE MUMFORD FREED BY COURT

ROLLING PIN MURDERER OF HER HUSBAND GIVEN PAROLE

Former E. Liverpool Woman Served Three Months. 2-4 YEAR TERM Claims She Struck Man When he Beat Her.

Mrs. Roxie Mumford, 42, former East Liverpool woman and convicted rolling pin slayer of her husband, Joseph B. Mumford, 55, was paroled at Pittsburgh yesterday afternoon after serving three months of a two to four-year sentence in jail. Convicted of manslaughter.

Mrs. Mumford, who was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter last September in Allegheny county, was released from the remainder of her term by Visiting Judge William K. Darr of Brookville, who heard the trial.

Mumford, who lived here for many years, was killed in his Pittsburgh home last April.

The petition asking Mrs. Mumford's release on parole was presented by Attorney J. Howard Devlin, trial counsel. Mrs. Mumford claimed self-defense. She declared that she had struck her husband with a rolling pin when he was beating her.

It is claimed that since the trial evidence has been discovered that Mrs. Mumford was subjected to frequent beatings by her husband. Mrs. Mumford had been in jail since her arrest last April.

RIVER RECEDES DESPITE RAIN; ONE MAN LOSES HIS LIFE

Despite an all-night rainfall, which slightly retarded the recession of the swollen stream, no new rise in the Ohio river is expected in the East Liverpool district, lock men at dam No. 8 said today. The gauge registered 32 feet at 9 o'clock this morning, 28 hours after the crest of 38.5 feet. The water was receding two-tenths of a foot an hour.

The Allegheny river was rising at Pittsburgh this morning, while the Monongahela river was reported to be stationary.

According to government records at the dam the rainfall between 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 8 o'clock this morning was 1.15 inches.

The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company today re-established through service between East Liverpool and Steubenville and also to Beaver. The River road bus which was withdrawn Wednesday afternoon, was also operating.

One man is believed to have lost his life in the flood waters.

Rivermen saw a floater in the river at Port Homer, and dragged it near shore. However, the body, dressed in the clothes of a laborer, floated away while authorities were being called.

ZANESVILLE, O., Dec. 16.—With continuous rainfall last night, the Muskingum river reached flood stage of 25 feet here today, and was reported rising at the rate of two-tenths feet per hour.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 16.—Following a night of steady rainfall, several northern Ohio cities today were preparing to renew their fight against high waters, which until the latest precipitation, had started to recede.

Massillon and Warren were chief sufferers in the northern part of the state, according to information reaching here this morning. Police and firemen using boats, rescued scores of families at Warren and suburbs when the Mahoning river rose five feet above flood stage.

Reports from Canoe City, just below Warren, stated that the little village was entirely inundated. Hardacre and Leavittsburg also reported flood damage.

At Massillon, the entire northwestern part of the city was under water and several families were reported marooned. The Massillon pumping station was threatened and fears were being entertained for the city's water supply.

MAYOR, HOOVER AND M'DERMOTT VOTED LARGER MONTHLY CHECK

Solons Sidetrack Auditor and Bailiff Proposals.

MEET ON MONDAY

Solicitor Gets $2,100; Police Chief, $2,280.

Enactment of an emergency ordinance restoring the mayor's salary to $1,800; passage of measures increasing the pay of the chief of police and city solicitor; placing on first reading an ordinance boosting the compensation of the court bailiff after the emergency clause had been stricken out, and tabling of a proposal to enlarge the figures in the monthly check of the city auditor, featured the meeting of council in the municipal court building last night.

Farrall Votes "Nay."

Solon Thomas Farrall cast the only negative vote when the ordinance restoring the salary of the mayor was brought up for consideration. He based his opposition on the fact that every candidate that entered the primaries last August knew what the salary was to be in the face of the reduction to $1,200, effective Jan. 1, next, made by council several months ago. He ended Councilman George Hughes for what he termed "hogging" the salary.

(Hughes) changed attitude in support of an ordinance making the salary $600 and then switching back to the original figure. Hughes fired back a few retorts after which Solon Hayes spoke for the measure. Hayes declared that he was sorry that the wages of policemen and firemen and other city employees could not be boosted. Farrall stood pat on the final roll call.

Table Auditor's Pay Plan.

Solons divided on the proposals to increase the salary of the city auditor from $1,680 to $1,980. Motion to suspend the rules and pass it as an emergency ordinance was defeated, 5 to 2. Goodhallet and Kelly opposing. Solicitor Hoover ruled that the vote killed the emergency feature, and the measure was then placed on first reading and passed, 4 to 3. Hayes, Hughes, Kimmel and Poole supporting, with

Jury Will Hear Part Of 4,500-Word Report Finding Remus Sane

Cincinnati Case of Former Liquor King, Who Slew Wife, Probably Will go to Jurors Next Monday.

By JAMES L. KILLGALLEN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Only two paragraphs of the 4,500-word report of the three court alienists, who found that George Remus was sane at the time he shot and killed his wife, Irene, last October, will be read to the jury. Judge Chester R. Shook ruled today.

These paragraphs will inform the jury the alienists made a "very exhaustive" study of Remus, as well as his family, and that they "unanimously" found him sane at the time of the murder.

GOV. DONAHEY AGAIN GRANDPA

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 16.—Governor Yic Donahey today shared over the arrival of his fourth grandchild, Edward Alston Ogden 2nd.

The lusty youngster arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Ogden here Thursday. Ogden, in charge of the trust division, state banking department, is the husband of one of Donahey's daughters, Elizabeth.

The Ogden have two other children, both boys, Park G. Jr., 6, and Victor Donahey, 4.

Wants Entire Report Read.

Remus' defense has been "transitory maniacal insanity." He claims he was temporarily insane when he killed his wife. He expressed regret that the report of the alienists was not allowed to go to the jury in full.

The alienists themselves are to take the stand today after their report is read to the jury. They are Dr. David I. Wolfstein, Dr. E. A. Baber, and Dr. Charles E. Kieley.

Judge Chester R. Shook predicted today that the case would go to the jury next Monday.

Tomorrow the lawyers for both sides will make their closing arguments and early Monday morning the judge expects to instruct the jury.

The court has informed the attorneys that closing arguments must be limited to four hours for each side.

Claim of Insanity Riddled.

The alienists' report is based on nearly five weeks of observation. They have interviewed Remus many times in jail and have watched him in court throughout the trial. Their report embraces a history of the Remus family, finding no abnormal symptoms among them. Remus himself was found to be quite normal, mentally and physically.

Remus' claim of temporary insanity was riddled by the report. The alienists found that all three elements of an "acute transitory mania" or "transitory maniacal insanity," as Remus terms it, are lacking. These are, namely: excitement, loss of consciousness or memory, and subsequent deep sleep. The typical Remus rages do not conform, the alienists said, to any known classification of insanity, nor to the medical term "mania." Neither does his indicated state of mind conform to the condition known as "paranoia."

The alienists paid Remus a few compliments, finding him to be an optimist, with a sense of humor; quick tempered, conscientious, and affectionate, with a sense of responsibility, and a flair for leadership.

"I killed her as a matter of principle," the alienists quoted Remus as admitting, "I do not care whether or not I go to dust."

Charges Follow Dispute Near Penn-Ohio Slope.

DEFER ACTION ON ATHLETIC FIELD WORK

School Board Awaits Bids From Fence Builders.

PLANS OUTLINED

Youngstown Engineer Explains Proposed Improvement.

No definite action looking toward the proposed improvements to the Patterson athletic field was taken by the board of education last night pending submission of bids from fence manufacturers. A special meeting probably will be held next week to act upon estimates.

A delegation of members from the West End Civic association, headed by Louis Groglode and William Riedel, lunched with the board of education last night to urge the improvement of the athletic field. The spokesman promised the cooperation of the residents of West End.

James R. Daugherty, Youngstown athletic field engineer, who has been retained by the board, explained his plans. He also submitted specifications for the fence Daugherty suggested a fence similar to that which is being used for athletic field enclosures in Youngstown and Struthers. He recommended non-climbable wire mesh, seven feet high with five strands of barbed wire along the top. There will be two roller bearing gates, one in West Eighth street and the other in Fourth street extension. Smaller swinging gates will be provided for the entrance to the proposed children's playgrounds and tennis courts.

Daugherty's estimates showed that approximately 1,500 running feet of fence, in addition to the gates, necessary to enclose the field. Three fence manufacturers submitted bids, but the estimates were returned with instructions that the bids be figured according to Daugherty's proposals.

Daugherty returned to Youngstown last night and will obtain estimates on the cost of the proposed improvement before the next meeting of the board. Board members are now negotiating with the railroad company for permission to construct a drainage sewer under the railroad tracks to the Ohio river, and also with the Standard Oil company for land, which will be required for the proposed stands.

The proposed stands are to be erected in three units. The plans of the first unit, consisting of 100 seats, stands aside from the improvements to the field. Space under the stands will be utilized for dressing rooms, lavatories, property rooms and the caretaker's quarters. There will be no roof over the stands.

Daugherty's plans call for a drainage system, which he declared would make the field dry and hard within an hour after a rain. A network of sewers will be laid beneath the ground.

The board approved the recommendation of Member C. A. Ferguson for a $25 per month increase in salary to Homer Roush, janitor of the Central school. Effective January 1 his salary will be $190. Ferguson explained that the janitor's work had been increased by additional class rooms and laboratories which had been opened this year.

Request for new sewing machines in the home economics department of the high school was also received. The board deferred action until prices are submitted.

A communication was received from the McKinley Parent-Teacher association, asking for the weather-stripping of the windows on the west side of the building. The board, in filing the communication, promised to consider the request later.

Transfer Harding Bodies on Dec. 21 TODAY

Every builder of a fast plane renders a service to his country.

THE United States Gypsum company, with offices in 20 cities and 22 mines and mills in 15 states, has this good idea. All headquarters managers devote two hours from 9 to 11 a. m., to "concentration." They allow no interruption except in emergencies. From 11 to 5 they see subordinates and business visitors generally. Each manager has at least two hours a day for real thinking.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER had that idea many years ago. One of his local managers, pointing proudly to a desk loaded down with papers, said to him, "a lot of detail, but I shall get through it all by night." Mr. Rockefeller, quoting that, said to his directors, "I want all important managers in our organization to sit with their feet upon clear desks, thinking how they can make more money for Standard Oil." They made it, with Rockefeller's direction, and now he spends it usefully, fighting disease and ignorance.

To get ahead remember that thinking comes first. The rest is secondary.

LEARNED professors in the University of Southern California say that slang, within reason, is good. It makes students select their expressions instead of using them automatically. To call your friend a "dim bulb" is better than saying to your brother "thou fool" and it means the same. Use of slang "makes a dent in the brain" and causes thought, says one professor. It also takes the place of thought, but that is too long an argument.

LANGUAGE that is now "high-brow" was once slang. The first man to call his friend "sincere," which means in Latin "without wax," or "pure honey," used "dim bulb" language. Slang says that a man with an easy job, "has it soft." The ancient that invented "sincere," meaning "without care," talked about the same language.

LOUIS GROGLODE SEDAN STOLEN

While Louis Groglode, 936 Lisbon street, was attending the meeting of the board of education at the high school building last night, his Chevrolet sedan which had been parked in East Fourth street was stolen, according to a report made to police. The machine carried license No. 286-640.

East End Man Fined $26. Max Uhlhorn, East End, was fined $25 and costs by Municipal Judge Haulton today after he was found guilty upon a charge of disorderly conduct. He was arrested upon information filed by Mrs. Rachel Deaville.

River Recedes

Transportation Facilities Hit. COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 16.—Transportation facilities by road and traction were tied up in many sections of Ohio today by water from rivers and creeks which overflowed their banks and flooded adjoining lowlands.

The Ohio was still rising at a number of places and was expected to reach its crest tonight or tomorrow morning. At Parkersburg, the 39.5 foot stage, three and a half feet above flood, was reached at noon today, with the water rising slightly.

There is no actual menace though considerable inconvenience is being experienced at many points. The situation is not alarming in the Scioto valley, though the river is flooding from Circleville down and is three feet above flood at Chillicothe.

The Sandusky is flooding at Tiffin and Fremont and is reported to be at its highest stage in years.

UHRICHVILLE, O., Dec. 16.—One hundred families here were forced today to choose between moving to the second floor of their homes, or going to other sections of the city following a night of steady rainfall, which caused the Stillwater river to overflow its banks.

40-Foot Stage at Marietta. MARIETTA, O., Dec. 16.—A 40-foot stage was reached by the Ohio river here this afternoon. Lowlands of the city were flooded and industry and business in that section was halted.

A secondary rise on the Upper Muskingum, and general waterfall over the Ohio watershed during the night are not expected to cause serious trouble here, except to prolong the flood. Rain turned to snow this morning and a blizzard was raging.

Boost City Pay (Continued from Page One)

Goodballet, Kelly and Farrall voting against the bill. Motion to table the ordinance carried, 6 to 1. Goodballet was again recorded in opposition.

Rules were suspended when the ordinance covering the salary raise for the solicitor came up for discussion, with Kelly casting the only negative ballot. Farrall made the only speech, in which he strongly urged the increase owing to the large amount of work handled by the solicitor's office. The measure provides for an increase of $600 annually, or $2,100 a year. The present salary is $1,500.

Unanimous action was taken on the measure raising the salary of the chief of police from $170 to $190 a month. Letter was read from Chief Hugh McDermott in which he pointed out that two years ago all members of the force with the exception of the head of the department were granted increases. He said that his duties were now increased with the annexed territory and further based his claim on the fact that since the municipal court has been established fees which he formerly received in state cases go into the treasury.

Bailiff Ordinance Vote. Emergency clause was removed from the court bailiff ordinance when Farrall and Kelly lined up in opposition. The proposal was then placed on first reading by a vote of 5 to 2. Hughes and Hayes spoke for the proposed increase from $100 to $150 per month, while Kelly voiced the opinion the bailiff was drawing down as much as a regular patrolman, citing that he was otherwise employed in the role of an officer.

Delegation of property holders of Mulberry street spoke in favor of an ordinance to adjust special assessments relative to the surfacing of the street. It was stated the measure asked for a reduction of 50 per cent. The proposal was stated the measure asked for a reduction of 50 per cent. The proposal was voted down, 4 to 3. Farrall, Hughes, Kelly and Poole were recorded in the affirmative, while Hayes, Kommel and Goodballet supported the legislation.

Resolution was passed on third reading, authorizing the city to pay to the county commissioners $5,000 additional for the improvement of West Eighth street. Farrall and Kelly voted against it on all roll calls.

Representatives of the West End Civic association requested that council go on record in favor of a sewage system for Patterson field. They said the board of education had promised to improve grounds. Motion was adopted instructing the city engineer to work in conjunction with the engineer employed by the school board.

Ordinance granting A. L. Pugh a 25-year lease on a piece of ground in lower Ohio avenue for the purpose of erecting a concrete block plant was shelved indefinitely. The vote was unanimous. Farrall urged further investigation.

Resolutions to improve Dresden avenue to the corporation line and to purchase property in Lincoln avenue for a right of way were laid over to be acted upon by the new council.

Claim for $450 for damages to an automobile and personal injuries was presented by an attorney in behalf of George Boley. The latter, it is claimed, drove into an obstruction on the River road near the Thompson pottery, Wednesday night, after the highway had been closed to traffic. Mayor Bendum, granted the privilege of the floor, said there was no foundation for the claim as there was no negligence on the part of the city. He advised that it be ignored, which was done by unanimous vote.

While the night's was the last regular session, council voted to call a special meeting for next Monday night.

LINDY DINES WITH OBREGON, VISITS CALLES

Flyer Accompanies Mexican Chief to Dairy Farm.

FETE PLANNED

100,000 Mexican School Pupils to Honor Visitor.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh breakfasted with General Obregon today and then accompanied President Calles on a visit to his dairy farm.

The secretary of public instruction today arranged a student fete to be held in the national stadium tomorrow in honor of the flyer. Over 100,000 school children are expected to take part in the fete.

Colonel Lindbergh has been invited to be a co-guest with Will Rogers, the American humorist, on Sunday, after a parade of 200,000 labor union men has been carried out in honor of the aviator.

At a typical Aztec flower festival at Xochimilco on the historic Viga canal, Colonel Lindbergh will be given the freedom of that ancient town on Monday.

The departure of Lindbergh on his Central American flight is still indefinite and awaits the arrival of eight tanks of special fuel which is now en route here. "The Spirit of St. Louis" is being kept under a heavy guard at Valbuena aerodrome.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—Ramming their automobile into the pay car of the Union National bank to distract the attention of the messengers, four bandits thrust their guns into the faces of their victims, took a satchel containing $11,000 in cash, dashed to a car in which two confederates were waiting and made their escape in a sensational holdup today.

Shop and Mail During Forenoon

With the last-minute Christmas rush scheduled to get under way Monday, persons who expect to avoid the congestion that is inevitable when scores defer these all-important tasks until the week before the Yuletide, should shop and mail during the forenoon. The wise shopper will not wait until next week; he or she will visit the stores between 10 A. M. and 4 P. M., the recognized dull period, on Saturday.

East Liverpool patrons should remember that stores will be open only three nights before the holiday—next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This means shopping must be done during the daylight hours.

Weeks before Christmas the Postoffice Department issues simple and useful directions to the mailers of Christmas packages. These rules are not arbitrary efforts to make the exchange of gifts difficult. They are intended for something quite the reverse—to facilitate prompt and accurate delivery, thus benefiting both senders and receivers.

A great part of the public heeds the instructions and follows them carefully. But an ordinarily intelligent person would be surprised to know how many mistakes are made. The postmaster in one city reported the other day that large quantities of foreign mail are held up because senders have put health seals and Christmas stamps on the packages. Such stickers are not permitted on foreign mail and should be put on domestic mail on the back of parcels and letters, never on the side with the postage stamps and address.

Let's put a little of the Christmas spirit into the shopping and mailing. Help store clerks and postal workers to enjoy the holiday by doing your shopping and mailing at once. Don't put off until tomorrow what can be done today.

Reading Election

Reading, Pa., which is scheduled to pass into the hands of a Socialist Administration on Jan. 2, evidently isn't going to be very Socialist.

The way that election happened to be won is interesting and illuminating. Reading had never been known as a "radical" city. It is a prosperous industrial community of 112,000 people, about 50 miles from Philadelphia, and has run along year after year pretty much the same politically as other Pennsylvania industrial cities. There was no big Socialist group. There was not much Socialist agitation.

The Socialist organization did not submit a ticket for the primary. But after the old party organizations had nominated their men, the Socialist leaders decided they could do better. So they called a party meeting at Labor Lyceum hall. Exactly 50 citizens responded, 48 men and two women. They nominated a ticket that seemed to make a hit with a lot of Reading citizens who had never been classed as Socialists.

Result: They elected their candidate for mayor, a cigar maker, by a vote nearly as big as that for the Republicans and Democrats together, and also a Socialist city controller, two councilmen, two school directors and possibly a city treasurer. They will control the administration about three to two.

And what will they do? Probably nothing very wild. "Thousands supported us who never before voted for Socialists," says the mayor-elect. "They did this in the hope we would check the ever-growing debts which have been forcing taxes higher every year, and adjust assessments so the expenses of the poor would not be increased."

It is well to realize the real meaning of this statement. Socialism is usually thought of as aiming at the division of all property, taking from the rich in order to give to the "proletariat" who haven't anything. Yet here we find thousands of American citizens voting the Socialist ticket in the expectation that the Socialists will save them money by lowering taxes on their property. Socialism is voted in by property-owners, some of whom call themselves Socialists and some of whom do not.

This is characteristically American. We have no "proletariat."

Humanity and Picture Frames

Curious facts often turn up in the news. One such was gleaned by a reporter visiting the shop of a picture framer. Said the proprietor:

"I make it a point to get a deposit on every marriage certificate brought here to be framed. You know, I have more of those left on my hands than anything else. Why? I've never been able to figure out. Men bring 'em in sometimes, women sometimes. About fifty-fifty."

And then they forget all about them and never call for the finished job.

The proprietor pointed to one which had been brought to him in October, 1922. He hasn't had the heart to take it out of its frame again, even though he could have sold that particular frame any number of times. He's just sentimental enough to think the couple whose marriage it certifies may come back for it.

Tragedies may lurk in those unclaimed marriage lines. But there is reassurance of human good sense in another group of forgotten jobs. These are the framed pictures of movie actors and actresses. Girls bring them in and then, apparently, get over their crush before it is time to call for them.

Family Stuff—

NEW YORK, Dec. 16. — Thoughts while strolling: Those men who stand in Fifth Avenue doorways checking off buses. Elizabeth Hines. Flappers talking the Moran and Mack lingo. What's become of ginger snaps? A drugstore with a balcony restaurant. Masseuse parlor: "Try our dry soda rub." Shop selling "sea skiffs." A girl wearing a fur-trimmed evening wrap over a riding costume. "Sinker" and coffee shops with gold curtains and carved furniture. Chauffeurs stuffing to keep warm. Samuel Hoffenstein, the poetical press agent for Al Woods.

The bleak office building where the roccoco Vanderbilt mansion once stood. That fresh feel after a sudden rain. The girl who used to do those undulating dances, billed as a "Princess," now running a beauty parlor. A hotel flying Belgian flags and a dazzling green carpet laid across the sidewalk.

Sign: "Brunch" — the new combination breakfast lunch. A girl with eloquent eyes at a tea room window — waiting. Those shrewd and impudent "kids" around theatres — the producers of tomorrow. Pie counters. Dollar hats. Rhinestone dresses. Draft bear.

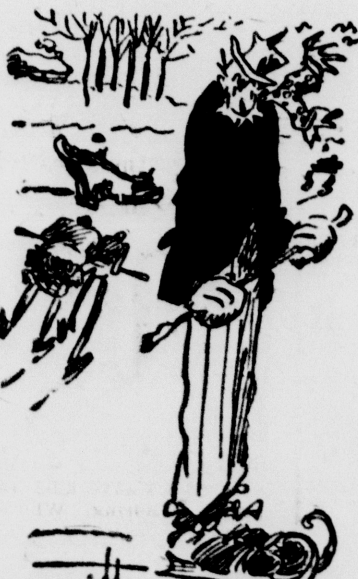

Gray, blinking old men with veined hands — carrying the banner. And those silver-haired Broadwayites you often discover are pool room managers or night cashiers. An ambulance backs up to an ice skating rink. "Daddy" Browning's cherry red limousine.

A burlesque comic who wears black string ties and looks like an undertaker. That is the popular idea of an undertaker. But they don't dress that way any more — at least around New York. The speakeasy tip-off — curtained windows so you cannot see in from the street.

Karl Bickel. Monocle wearers from What Cheer, Iowa. And spit wearers from Plattsburg, Mo. Hale Byers, the half pint orchestra leader, who spends off hours reading the classics. Martha Wilchinski. Roxy's press agent.

There is nothing quite so earnest as a vaudevillian discussing the merits of his act. He soars on the wings of superlatives. He can knock 'em stiff in their seats or lay 'em out in the aisles wherever he appears. And yet off stage and among strangers he is almost invariably so much of a stinking violet that you never imagine he is of age.

Abe Martin Says:

Most o' th' husband callin' can't be heard as far as th' sidewalk. It seems like th' more science does for th' kitchen th' more new eatin' places open up downtown.

This morning I met a vaudeville actor who has been opening and closing shows for years with the same mediocre routine. He rehearsed a bit of new business he was planning to inject into the act. "It means top billing for me at last," he enthused with that futile optimism that brings a lump in the throat.

Broadway applauds those at the top with more zeal than any other place on the globe. Those who succeed have the chimerical world of dazzling lights at their feet. They receive thunderous applause on the back, head, waters bows, comedians step out of their parts to hand them a welcoming line and all the flattering fol de rol that goes with the fleeting golden hour. But new idols come and the old disappear like the mist of a Broadway dawn. One of the most historical first nights I ever attended was that of a prima donna in her most notable role. The late Victor Herbert welded the baton. The audience was ultra. And that star Mary Smith — which was not her name — was a half hour receiving flowers over the footlights. The other day passing 14th street a second class musical show was playing in a theatre there. The list of principals wound up with — "and Mary Smith."

The high cost of silk stockings no longer worry musical show producers. Hosiery is today as useless as a post-office pen. The girls go bare legged.

Robert Benchley was called in to inject a few red corpuscles in a musical show and Alexander Woolcott observed he could see nothing of the Benchley relationship unless a few ladies in the chorus happened to be his aunts.

Attorney Richard S. Holt, of Beaver, Midland borough solicitor, today is investigating the legal aspects of the state's attempt to collect approximately $100 taxes from the borough alleged to have been due the state for nearly 20 years.

The tax is a 4-mill levy required under state law from all incorporations having bonded indebtedness.

According to information received from state officials by local council, the tax for the years 1908, 1909 and 1910 was never paid by the borough.

West Virginia university football squad will play ten games next fall, according to the schedule released yesterday by officials of the institution. Six of the contests will be staged on foreign fields. ### WELLSBURG MAN DIES IN SKIFF

J. D. Williams, 75, of LaBelle mine district, near Wellsburg, was found dead in a skiff on the Ohio river yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at approximately the same spot where his son was drowned seven years ago about two weeks before Christmas.

Dr. J. B. Walkingshaw, coroner of Brooke county, rendered a verdict of death due to heart attack. According to reports, Williams, who was a retired coal miner, was gathering drift wood near the mouth of Buffalo creek on the torrid Ohio. As his boat drifted to the place where his son met his death, he is reported to have lunged forward, his limp body falling part way over the side of the skiff.

LICENSE TAGS BEING MAILED

Announcement from the state road commission offices at Charleston on Wednesday was to the effect that 233,381 auto license applications had been mailed out by the commission in this state.

To date, the office reports that 75,000 automobile owners have failed to send their certificates of title to the commission, and it will be impossible for these people to get licenses until their titles have been properly recorded by the commission.

B. S. Day, superintendent of the automobile department of the commission, informed local authorities that 20,000 class A 1928 licenses have been mailed from the office and that 300 class B licenses had been mailed.

The state road commission is now located in the new capitol building. All applications are given immediate attention, the license plates being mailed the same day applications are received.

Costly Repatee.

NEW YORK CITY—A sprightly and costly repatee took place in Justice Callaghan's court when an attorney objected to having the case of his client adjourned. "But your honor, I don't want an adjournment," protested the attorney. "Be quiet," admonished the judge. "But I want my case to go on." "You are fined $25 for contempt of court." "Well then I might as well say what I was going to say." "Your fine is now $75 more." "Does that mean $100 altogether?" "It certainly does," the judge assured him.

A REVOLUTIONARY STEP IN OUR APPAREL BUSINESS

The Winter of 1927 Was Not Winter of 1908 or Even 1926 — and the merchandising Methods used then are not sensational enough to level the mountain of Coats Stein's has on its selling floors and stock rooms NOW. Therefore

This is the most drastic mark-down we have ever found it necessary to take on FURS, COATS and DRESSES in the early part of December. Our Coat business has not been good. Some say it is because the weather has been so warm; others think that women are not spending their money so freely, and that they will not pay the price. We cannot find much consolation in excuses, we only know that we have enough

Fur Coats, Cloth Coats and Dresses in our store today to completely stock two or three average stores at the beginning of the season.

YOU SAY THE WEATHER HASN'T BEEN COLD ENOUGH? THE WEATHER IS COLD ENOUGH NOW! YOU SAY THE PRICE HASN'T BEEN RIGHT? THE PRICE IS SURELY RIGHT NOW!

SO HERE YOU HAVE BOTH THE WEATHER AND THE PRICE YOU HAVE BEEN WAITING FOR, THERE REMAINS NOW NO EXCUSE FOR ANY WOMAN WHO WANTS TO BUY A FINE COAT OR FUR COAT AT THE MOST SENSATIONAL SAVING EVER QUOTED BEFORE CHRISTMAS.

"Peck" Home Again

And As A Big League Chieftain.

ROGER PECKINPAUGH, who started his baseball career as a high school star in his home town of Cleveland, O., but had to win his success as a major leaguer away from home, returns to Cleveland as manager of the American league club there. Peckinpaugh's selection was announced after the report had become general and apparently confirmed that Arthur Fletcher, former Giant infielder, has been selected. Peckinpaugh left home as a callow youth, as a good player "who couldn't hit." He returns recognized as one of the most dangerous hitters in baseball. As a member of the old Yankee wrecking crew of Pipp, Pratt, Peck, Ruth and Munsel he helped Miller Huggins win his early pennants.

Cleveland had Peckinpaugh early in his career. In fact, "Deacon Jim" McGuire, then manager of the Indians, gave Peckinpaugh a tryout in the south when the lad was still in high school. Cleveland kept a string on him until he seemed set for major league labor. Then in 1913, Joe Birmingham, manager, let him go to New York in a trade. Cleveland had Ray Chapman and Ivan Oison at short. Constant practice against curve ball pitching under Manager Frank Chance's direction at the Yankee camp gave Peckinpaugh a "batting eye."

That was all he needed.

TWO TITLE BOUTS IN GOTHAM RING.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Two 15-round championship bouts will be held in the same ring here tonight. Tod Morgan, of Seattle, will defend his junior lightweight crown against Joe Glick of Brooklyn, and the winner of the Newsboy Brown-Corporal Izzy Schwartz scrap will be recognized by the New York state athletic commission as the successor to the flyweight title vacated by Fidel La Barba.

Morgan is a 6 to 5 favorite over Glick, while betting on the flyweight bout is at even money. Glick recently eliminated Jack Bernstein, former champion.

HAGEN, GANZEL NEED MORE CASH

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Walter Hagen, pro golf champion, and John Gangel, former ball player, have been granted one week of grace by the International league in which to raise $40,000 to complete their purchase of the franchise of the Rochester International league baseball team. To date they have made only a partial payment of $25,000.

With the parents on both sides supporting companionate couples, the mother-in-law problem does not grow less.—Cincinnati Times Star.

"Average" Student

Lillian Goodnight, of Abilene, Tex., has been selected as the "average student" attending the College of Industrial Arts at Denton, Tex. She is five feet five, more blonde than brunette, weighs 119, does not participate in college athletics, plays golf, rides horseback, swims and drives a car. And she has an average number of "dates."

How the Other Half Behaves

Tangled Love Affair.

TOLEDO, O.—The tangled skeins of a love affair were given to Judge Carl Christenson to unravel when a couple appeared before him. The man in the case maintained that he had given his "girl friend" $10 and a pawn ticket with which she agreed to redeem his trousers. Evening came, but no trousers, no $10, not even the pawn ticket. Whereupon he went questioning his lady love and found her in a cabaret. "He smacked me on the jaw," said the girl, "and here is his pawn ticket." The judge told her to return it. As she edged toward the door, the lady announced: "I already got one."

Dog Questions Intentions.

PORTLAND, Ore. — Peggy, the faithful dog of the Lynch family of Lakeview, Ore., guarded Eileen and Betty Lynch, aged 4 and 7 years, so well that she almost prevented their rescue. The little girls had wandered off in the woods near Lakeview, and when a search party was hastily organized, they had trouble in driving the dog away long enough to carry the tots home to their family. The girls were alone in the wood for sixteen hours.

Friendly Enemies.

LONDON, England.—A dogs remarkable friendship or a kittens recently told by the owner of a terrier and a kitten. The kitten became ill and was taken to a clinic for treatment. The dog was inconsolable. Then two weeks later the dog disappeared. Early next morning, however, an imperious scratching at the front door awakened the owner, who, on opening it, found his dog vigorously wagging his tail and carrying the kitten in his mouth. How the dog found his missing playmate could not be learned.

Palestine's new currency is now being put into circulation, and Egyptian money, which has been used in Palestine, is being withdrawn.

High School Court Squads Off Today On Two-Game Journey

VARSITY, RESERVES IN ACTION TONIGHT

Open With Scuffles at Canton McKinley; Game With Akron East Slated for Saturday Afternoon; 19 Potters on Trip.

A squad of 19 high school basketball players, including both the varsity and reserve fives, as well as a bevy of substitutes, in charge of Coach Joe Hurst, will leave this afternoon by bus on a two-day trip to Canton and Akron.

Tonight the Hurstmen will tackle Canton McKinley and tomorrow afternoon will play Akron East. Both the Canton and Akron teams size up as extraordinarily strong for opening games and, as a result, Hurst is none too optimistic over the outcome in view of the comparative newness of most of his squad.

Games between both the varsity and the reserves are listed tonight at McKinley high.

Although tentative the starting line-up for Hurst's first stringers tonight will include Wildblood and Feit at forwards; English at center; and Blood and Crawford at the guards.

The Reserves likely will line up with Small and McNutt at forwards; Dyke at center; and Skidmore and Clark at guards.

The squad will stay in Canton tonight and tomorrow morning leave for Akron.

The game with east will be played at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

STRIVE TO AVERT ARMY-NAVY BREAK

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 16. — The final decision in the Army-Navy squabble over eligibility rules may be reached late today when Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton, superintendent of the naval academy, is expected to issue a statement to answer that of General Winans, superintendent at West Point.

The fact that Army refuses to adopt the three-year rule means that a break is imminent, and Navy officials will attempt to avert it.

The early outlook points to no service game next fall. Both the Army and Navy officials are acting individually in the matter, and, though the ultimate outcome is dependent upon the stand to be taken by the Navy, it is believed that the heads of the Navy and War departments will take an active hand to bring about harmony between the schools.

Gene Card, Wilkes-Barre, outplayed Sailor Darden, New York (19).

Sport Review of 1927

BY NORMAN E. BROWN.

For a Winter Month, February Did Very Well

HE fact that it was a winter month did not prevent February from claiming the interest of baseball fans.

Ty Cobb, baseball's superman, moved his diamond togs, after playing two decades in one uniform, that of the Detroit Tigers, and setting up a list of records that surpasses even those established by old Pop Anson.

Connie Mack, Athletics' boss, signed Cobb to play center field for the Athletics at a salary of $65,000. This deal, coming on top of the sensations day by day over the charges hurled against Cobb and Speaker by Dutch Leonard and then the vitriolic attacks of Ben Johnsons, easily made Cobb the outstanding figure of the month.

Baseball held the floor on two or three other occasions as well. The New York Giants stuck the Cincinnati Reds in a deal that sent George Kelly, veteran first baseman, west for Eddie Roush, great center fielding hold-out. Kelly simply made the number of players and uniforms owned by the Reds come out even.

The New York Yankees traded Sam Jones, veteran pitcher, for Joe Giard, a young hurler, and Cedric Durst, outfielder. The Yanks didn't need either man and Jones didn't do the Browns any good. Which helped give the Browns a batting average of .000 on trades for the year.

The Davis Cup committee barred Vincent Richards, star of the 1926 games, from cup competition in 1927 because of his appearances as a professional.

Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis wizard, ended her American tour with over $100,000 in her bank book as a result of C. C. Pyle's acute management and her own popularity.

Otto Keischkefer won the world's three-cushion billiard title in a tournament which found him pitted against Otto Reisel in the finals and ended in a 50 to 20 victory over Reisel.

New Pole Vault Record. Sablin Carr, Yale's great pole vaulter, demanded a day's attention by surpassing the world's record for the indoor pole vault, held by the great Norwegian vaulter, Charley Hoff. The latter's record was 13 feet, 8 1/2 inches. Carr, in a meet at Madison Square Garden, cleared the bar at 13 feet, 9 1/2 inches.

Golfers received another choice morsel to mull over when Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen hooked up in a 72-hole match. Sarazen had announced in a magazine article that he had Walter's golfing goat. And results of previous battles between the two seemed to indicate as much.

But, oh, what Hagen did to him when they met in the grudge match! Dapper Walter won with a lead of 16 holes over the 72—a sardonic grin on his face.

A Cold Dish. Boxing was served a delightful dish of old cheese when Charley Phil Rosenberg, bantam champion, and Bushey Graham were signed for a title bout in New York. The battle was staged.

Rosenberg was unable to make the bantam limit the day of the fight and was forced to abdicate his throne as far as New York state was concerned. The fight was one of those things. A few days later all parties involved were suspended because of the revealing of secret contracts between the managers.

Tex Rickard staged the first of his elimination matches which led to the long bout at Chicago. Jimmy Maloney, Boston butcher, and Jack Delaney, Canadian sharpshooter, met in New York and Maloney won on points, in 10 rounds.

ter of the two-man event last night at the Liberty runways. The second matches will be roiled December 23 at Salem.

P. & L. E. passers of the "Y" Sunday school league ran the C. & P. five off the track last night in a 19-14 contest on the Y. M. C. A. court.

The game was hard fought from start to finish, neither quint showing much in the way of passwork. The P. & L. E. five went into the lead at the start of the game, holding a 6-1 advantage at the end of the quarter. During the second period the C. & P. gang got going. They evened the count up and then went ahead, leading by a score of 8 to 6 at the half.

The opposition came back in the third period and the lead switched again, the tally being 14-10 at the third quarter post. The P. & L. E. squad maintained their margin the rest of the game.

Wilson, Kittridge and Caplan were the luminaries for the winners, while Ankrin, Burke and McBride starred for the losers.

Draft War Is Averted As Major Magnates Close Conference

LOOPS TO RECOGNIZE PRESENT AGREEMENT

Small Minors, From Whom Complaints Have Come, are Forced Into Line by Attitude of Three Double A Leagues.

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The war is over before a gun is fired. The armistice is about to be signed. The minor leagues will not break with the majors on the draft question. This much was certain today as baseball's warring factions withdrew in good order from the theatre of activities behind the statement of Secretary John H. Farrell, of the minor leagues, that nothing will be done about the draft until February 1. It is my information that nothing will be done about it then.

In other words, it is the understanding today that the existing major-minor league agreement will be allowed to run on until further notice, with the minors making the best of what possibly is a bad situation. They have been forced to this pass by the attitude of the three class AA leagues, namely the International, the American association and the Pacific Coast leagues, all of whom are so closely associated with major league activities that they have decided they cannot or will not "go it alone."

The agitation for an entire separate from the majors has come, it seems, from the leagues of lower classification. These claim that they cannot do business on an economic basis unless the draft is turned on some one else or words to that general effect. They have no real or lasting liaison with the majors, anyhow, and so they feel that the proposed break would have little effect on them, except for the better.

Landis Urges Harmony.
However, it appears that the so-called "big minors" have committed themselves too far in their transaction with the majors to turn back now or at any immediate date. Deals for players have been consummated, and the draft is a fact.

Landis, however, neither is understood to be vitally annoyed by the draft situation, since they sell their real stars before the draft goes into operation. By the time that it does, the men affected are not the big shots and, in consequence, no particular harm is done.

It is the smaller minors, it seems, that have to take what is elegantly known as the "slap."

representatives yesterday. The judge, of course, is a strict neutral and, in this role, he simply couldn't miss the abiding point of the whole argument, to wit, that the majors need the minors and the minors need the majors, which leaves both no alternative but to play ball with each other like nice, little gentlemen.

Bound To Majors.
The International league offers a fair illustration of how closely the bonds of common interest bind the big minors to the bigger majors. The Syracuse club, for one thing, is owned by the St. Louis Cardinals. It couldn't very well break with itself. Reading and the Giants have a close bond of sympathy. Buffalo is not for war any time and the new Montreal outfit naturally is leaning upon the majors for the life blood of its player strength.

The Coast league and the American association are made up of clubs that are not too closely affiliated with major league ownership, except in the case of the Wrigley interests at Los Angeles. However, neither is understood to be vitally annoyed by the draft situation, since they sell their real stars before the draft goes into operation. By the time that it does, the men affected are not the big shots and, in consequence, no particular harm is done.

LANDIS' INCOME TO BE REDUCED

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The income of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis will be cut next year by the action of the joint committee of the major leagues in voting to reduce the share of the office of the baseball commissioner in the world series from 15 per cent out of the gross receipts to 10 per cent. Out of the 10 per cent the salary of Commissioner Landis and all expenses connected with his office must be paid. In making the reduction, it was pointed out that the greater receipt due to larger parks and higher prices made the lesser amount sufficient for carrying on the work accomplished by Commissioner Landis.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—This is the year, according to sport experts in these parts as the team of western all star football players began arriving in San Francisco for their annual game with the eastern all stars on Dec. 26. Western teams have emerged victorious in two previous contests. The easterners, headed by Andy Kerr, Washington and Jefferson coach, are due here Sunday. Both teams will begin practice Monday.

Salineville Wins Opener With Midland

Tom Cartwright's Salineville county league team, with its newly acquired batch of young material, together with the veterans of last year, outscored the Midland Collegians last night at Salineville in a game preliminary to the opening of the county circuit next week.

Center Grundy slipped and dodged through the visiting defense for four field goals in the first half while Guard Raffle piled up 16 points during the game. Raffle's accurate marksmanship from the foul line aided the Salineville quint to no small extent. Center Grundy sustained a twisted ankle in the last quarter, being compelled to leave the game.

The game was a battle all the way with victory undecided until the last minute.

The half ended in a tie, 18-18 and there was little difference between the respective scores the remainder of the way. At one stage of the third quarter the Collegians went ahead but failed to maintain their advantage. The Pennsylvanians lost some of its strength in the third quarter via the personal four route. Benedict played a brilliant game for Midland, chalking up six field goals and two fouls for 14 points.

The victory over the strong Midland aggregation indicates the Salineville quint will be making a strong bid for one of the upper berths in the Columbus county loop.

MUD AND ROCKS BLOCK HIGHWAY NEAR WALKERS

Traction Company Workers Patrol Right of Way.

VEHICLES BARRED

No Serious Damage Reported From Flood.

While the waters of the swollen Ohio river, receding at the rate of two-tenths of a foot an hour, have left little damage in their wake, there still remained today the menace of falling mud and rocks from Walker cliffs along the Wellsville-East Liverpool highway, as a result of an all-night rainfall.

The road was blocked to traffic again at a point below Walker's early this morning as a result of a large slip of earth and rock, loosened by the rain, encroaching closely on the street car tracks.

With debris falling almost constantly, the traction company has assigned guards to patrol the right of way in the danger zone to eliminate the possibility of accidents to street car traffic.

A few feet more of water in the Wellsville district would undoubtedly hit certain portions of the city hard. As the water reached its crest, however, only two homes felt the effect of the rise. Claude Clutter, living in Daubury avenue, near the United States Pottery company, was forced to move from his house. The Dick Montgomery house, in First street, which sits lower in the street than the others, was partially filled by water. Increase of several feet would have endangered several industrial plants.

YELLOW CREEK CHURCH SERVICES

Rev. John Sharpe will preach in the Yellow Creek Presbyterian church Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school will meet at 10 a. m., and the young people's society at 7 p. m.

CHIEF PHILLIPS ASKS DIVORCE

Alonzo Phillips, Wellsville fire chief, yesterday filed suit for divorce in common pleas court, charging that his wife has another husband living. The petition was filed by Attorney W. A. O'Grady.

Chief Phillips was married July 7, 1925. He declared in his petition that his wife, Sylvia M. Phillips, falsely represented she was an unmarried woman, with no legal impediment and competent to marry.

It is also declared by Phillips that when he learned of this, he refused to live with his wife longer.

Following the regular business session, the club gave a program in charge of the president, Miss Mary Jones, the affair being in keeping with the Christmas season.

Music was a diversion after the program. Gifts were exchanged by the members.

A three-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Irene Johnson. Mrs. M. Benford was a guest.

MUSHRUSH TO BE EMPIRE'S MAYOR

Mayor-elect William Mushrush, of Empire, has been declared victor in the election contest case brought by the winner's opponent, Sherman Carnahan, in probate court at Steubenville, the jury awarding the verdict to Mushrush after three hours of deliberation.

Following the hearing of witnesses for the plaintiff, the defense, without testifying, moved that the jury bring in a verdict. The jury consisted of Guy Johnson, Harry Campbell and James Connor. Judge Morrow presided.

HEROINE DIES WITH TOTS IN QUEBEC FIRE

Thirty-seven Bodies Recovered in Ruins of Orphanage.

DEATH TOLL 43

Official Investigation of Catastrophe Under Way.

QUEBEC, Dec. 16.—Official searchers for the bodies of children in the ruins of the Hospice St. Charles convent, which was destroyed by fire here early yesterday, announced early today that 37 bodies have been recovered.
Thirty-six of these were little children and one adult, Anna Gaudreault, 17, hopouse of the holocaust, who made three trips alone into the burning building rescuing parties of eight and ten children in each expedition, but met death herself on the fourth attempt.
According to police who spent the greater part of the night in combing the city for missing children who had been given shelter in strange homes, the terrific strain of their harrowing experience so unnerved the youthful survivors that they were unable to

Miss Kathryn Witwer
A former Chicago stenographer,
Miss Kathryn Witwer, recently

tional Young Artists' contest, conducted by the National Federation of Music Clubs last April.

give an account of themselves or their names. Less than ten of the inmates of the building are now unaccounted for.
The death toll total, police believe,
will stand at 42 or 43 when all details of the search have been cleared. This figure is lower than estimates given out in official quarters on Thursday, a condition due to the nervous tension which prevailed and to the fact that many rescued children had been given sanctuary in strange homes in all parts of Quebec.
Today the official sequel to the castrophe got under way. Coroner Jolicœur began this morning the holding of 37 inquests.
Fire Marshal Leclerc launched an investigation into the cause of the fire, which is unofficially attributed to a furnace explosion, or to an outbreak originating on materials left in the basement of one wing by a repair crew.

Mail Christmas Gifts Now, P.O. Chief Says

"Deadline" For Certain Types of Yule Packages Is Rapidly Approaching, Postmaster Warns.

Postmaster Charles Brown today renewed his appeal to patrons of the East Liverpool postoffice to do at least the bulk of their Christmas gift mailing this week.

"By the first of next week pre-Christmas strain, and overload, will be thrown on the postal departments throughout the country," Brown pointed out. "Reports from other cities show that the earlier mailing of Christmas gift packages has attained tremendous headway throughout the country this year."

The postmaster further pointed out that the "dead line" for certain types of Christmas package mailing is rapidly approaching.

"Why wait until the last minute and take the risk of disappointing the recipients of your gifts?" Postmaster Brown asked. "The use of the label, 'Not To Be Opened Until Christmas,' has become generally recognized the world over. It is a fine protection against the crowded mail conditions which immediately precede Christmas."

Brown was enthusiastic in expressing his approval of the action of East Liverpool merchants in making their complete Christmas stocks available earlier this year.

"It has been a splendid incentive to earlier mailing," the postmaster said.

"RED RAIDERS" AT AMERICAN

Ken Maynard Stars In Drama Of Outdoors.

A movie without an artificial set of scenery! That is the distinction of "The Red Raiders," which opened at the American theatre yesterday.

Calling for the majority of its action in the wide open spaces of early Indian territory of the northwest, "The Red Raiders" is primarily an outdoor drama, produced by Charles R. Rogers, starring Ken Maynard, were taken in the picturesque region of Lodge Grass, Mont., in the heart of the early savage Indian hotbed.

Normally, even in the making of outdoor pictures, producers are compelled to impress scenes to fit the story, but "The Red Raiders" was taken in the locale of the original story. More than two weeks were spent on location in the Montana wilderness and in the vicinity of two Indian reservations—the Crows and Sioux.

"The Red Raiders," written by Marion Jackson, is based on the struggle of pioneer settlers in the northwest, who lived in peril of the savage Indians.

Supporting Ken Maynard in the cast are Ann Drew, Paul Hurst, Chief Yawlahe, Tom Bay, J. P. McGowan, Harry Shutan and Hal Salter.

Because it requires six months to get an automobile from Baranquilla to Bogota, Colombia, the dealers in Bogota have sold out their supply and many who wish cars are unable to get them.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart.
(Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to Review-Tribune)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 16.—Executive department and sub-departments, government bureaus and boards, and commissions, all sorts of federal offices and institutions are having their annual hemorrhage of reports just now, to congress—either directly, or through whatever intervening functionaries, or groups of same, may happen to stand between them and the legislative body.

There's a regular library of this stuff every year about this time. The president starts it with his message, which is a report, in its way, with recommendations. The others, coming right in afterward, to the tune of twenty or thirty, some of them good-sized volumes.

Occasionally there's one with good reading in it—even sensational. The trouble is, they're bunched too much. To wade through the entire mass is a hopeless undertaking, so the whole thing usually goes unread except by a few specialists.

The move to abolish about fifteen of the house of representatives' standing committees has developed an amount of ill feeling on Capitol Hill out of all proportion to what anybody would imagine possible without an understanding of the reasons responsible for it.

For one thing, a committee chairmanship carries a certain amount of importance with it.

The committee may not amount to much, but the chairman always is in a position to refer to himself as head of such-and-such a committee, and visiting constituents are impressed by it—the chairman sees to it that they are, when he tells 'em about it and explains how busy it keeps him—though a member of one committee told congress last winter that it was five years since his outfit had had a meeting.

But aside from that, a committee chairman has an extra office and the committee has a secretary, who really is the chairman's personal secretary—unless it's an exceedingly important committee, which makes its secretary lusty.

Now, an extra office is a consideration to a representative. It doesn't matter so much to a senator. He has two anyway, and some have three, but representatives have only one apiece—except chairmen.

Here then, we have some fifteen chairmen—who are liable to be tossed out into the cold world if their committees are abolished. They'll rather influential congressmen, too, or they wouldn't be chairmen. They're not of prime importance, or they'd be chairmen of bigger committees, but they're above the average.

There are 61 standing committees in the house of representatives and only 24 in the senate, which may or may not suggest that the former body has more than are absolutely necessary.

The house, for instance, has a "committee on expenditures" by each of the executive departments—state, war, navy and so on. There are ten, at a clatter, Congressman Tilson, house majority floor leader, can't see why one "auditing committee" would not do just as well. Others can. It would be harder work, among other things.

A couple of other house committees it's proposed to abolish are these:

The woman's suffrage committee.

The committee on the alcoholic liquor traffic.

The argument is that women have the vote already and that there hasn't been any alcoholic liquor traffic since prohibition.

YULE DINNER KETTLE IN STORE

At the suggestion of the store manager, one of the Salvation Army Christmas dinner kettles was placed in the center aisle of the Ross Stores, Inc., East Fifth street, today.

According to Field Major Joseph Hughes, this is the first time in the history of the Salvation Army that the courtesy of placing a kettle inside a store has been extended. The store manager has promised to have the store's Santa Claus take charge of the kettle which will be displayed until Christmas time.

Street kettles will be maintained every shopping day up to and including Christmas eve.

After having used a cup and saucer every working day for 42 years, W. H. Kimberlin, a clerk of Rotherham, England, upon retiring on pension, took them home without a crack.

AUTO CRASH HALTS HEARING

Widow, Seeking State
Award, Seriously Injured.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 16. — The state industrial commission, it was stated today, indefinitely postponed its scheduled hearing relative to the request of Mrs. Floradora Jarvis that the $6,500 award granted her by the commission, from the state workmen's compensation fund, as a result of the death of her husband at Defiance, be given her in a lump sum, instead of in installments from month to month.

The action of the commission in postponing the hearing was taken late Wednesday when Attorney T. J. Duffy, Columbus, a former member of the commission, as counsel for Mrs. Jarvis, informed the commission that she was in a hospital at Marysville, suffering from probable fatal injuries received in an auto accident.

The hearing was originally scheduled to be held Wednesday. Mrs. Jarvis was enroute to Columbus to attend the hearing when the auto which she was driving skidded and hit a telephone pole near Marysville late Tuesday.

E. C. West, 40, Urbana, who was riding with Mrs. Jarvis, sustained a fractured skull, causing his death two hours later. Mrs. Jarvis' injuries, it was stated, included a fractured skull.

Further action by the commission in this case, it was indicated, will be delayed pending the outcome of Mrs. Jarvis' injuries.

CANINE STAR AT THE STRAND

Wonder Dog Has Role In "Fangs of Destiny."

"Fangs of Destiny," a Universal Feature Western, with all the melodrama, action, thrills, suspense and heart interest that can be transposed to the celluloid out of a plausible story and plot, is now showing at the Strand theatre, with "Dynamite," the wonder dog in the stellar role.

Practically all of the essentials that go to make an entertainment giving the maximum of enjoyment are incorporated in the melodrama, which is also somewhat of an innovation so far as Western films are concerned, as the locale of the action is laid down in that part of the west where the mighty onrush of progress, through the discovery of oil, is rapidly breaking up those vast ranges where once untold numbers of long horns roamed on the vast holdings of the old time cattle kings.

The canine star of the picture is undoubtedly entitled to most of the plaudits, because of the dog's perfect pantomimic performance, which promises to rival in cunning and intelligence, the faultless screen work of Rin Tin Tin, his most conspicuous rival for screen honors.

Edmund Cobb, star of innumerable Westerns is invested with the leading male "human" role, with beautiful Betty Caldwell playing opposite the dashing cowboy. Although but a comparative newcomer to the realm of the silver sheet, Miss Caldwell displays the most charming screen personality and her performance in his picture could gain for her a host of admirers in the ranks of the film fans.

The director, Stuart Paton, is entitled to a substantial share of the credit for the many novel twists and new stunts he has evolved in transposing George Morgan's story to the celluloid.

The acting of the balance of the cast, including George Periolat, Carl Sepulveda, Al Ferguson, John Hathaway, and Brick Cannon is commendable, all giving able support to the four-footed star.

"OUT ALL NIGHT" SCREEN WINNER

Reginald Denny Scores
Ceramic.

You won't mind staying out all night to see "Out All Night," Universal's production by that name, with as great a cast of clever comedians as you ever saw assembled in one picture, opened an engagement of three days at the Ceramic theatre last night.

Reginald Denny, the brilliant farceur, already well-known to screen fans throughout the world for his work in "Till Show You the Town," "Skinner's Dress Suit," "Fast and Furious," and other pictures, gives a performance in the leading role of "Out All Night" which should long be remembered.

Star though he is, Dr. Denny has to troupe to dominate the picture, for the supporting cast contains such capable players as Marian Nixon, Ben Hendricks Jr., Dorothy Earle, Dan Mason and Wheeler Oakman. The work of these and much to the merriment of the whole show.

Denny, as the man about town who marries a cute little ballet dancer, is delightful always, and the story injects him into all manner of strange and embarrassing situations. The complications that involve Denny provide more side-splitting mirth than has been screened for some time.

Masquerading as a ship's physician, he embarks with his newly-wed wife who is a show trouper, and their trip to London is a series of embarrassing maneuvers so that he may see her. The wedding must be kept a secret because of a clause in Molly O'Day's contract which calls for a forfeit of $100,000 if she should marry. It all ends in a mad farce in mid-ocean, chuck full of laughs and entertainment.

"Out All Night" was capably directed by William A. Seiter and written by Gladys Lehman.

It is stated, and the way made clear for the placing of emphasis in future health work. Irving Fisher, professor of Political Economy at Yale, will show how life has been lengthened, on the average, with the progress of science, and will point to the possibilities of extending the average life span to 100 years and even longer by the application of science to the every day habits of living.

Several of the country's most noted authorities on nutrition will be brought together by the conference in an important program, public hygiene will be the subject of symposiums by state and city health commissioners, and the relation of personal habits to health and well-being will be discussed in special sectional meetings on alcohol, drugs, tobacco, and other subjects that have aroused wide public debate.

Sebring schools will close here for the Christmas vacation Friday afternoon, December 23, according to Superintendent S. H. Pollock. They will reopen Tuesday morning, January 3. Because Sebring lost a week recently due to infantile paralysis scare, schools will be closed one week instead of two.

The annual football banquet sponsored by Sebring business and professional men, under the leadership of Eddie H. well, was held in the basement of the Church of Christ, Tuesday evening and proved to be perhaps the most successful event of the kind yet held. The Sebring Rotary club attended the banquet in a body. A chicken supper was served by the women of the church.

The "Sunset Trio," one of the Lyceum course numbers, will present an entertainment at McKinley high school Monday evening, December 19, according to Superintendent S. H. Pollock. There will be a reader and impersonator, a concert artist and violinist.

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

UP FROM BELOW.

Everybody has heard of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey. Rich and powerful, it is known throughout the world. The highest thing about it is its manpower, under the leadership of able executives. But the thing that is not generally known is that nearly all the leading executives of this company came up from the ranks. One was a hod carrier. Another started to work for the Standard when he was 14 — in the factory that made handles for tin cans. Another was a bookkeeper. So many bookkeepers think they toil in vain, with nothing ahead of them. The vice president of the company began as an office boy.

The young man who gets somewhere in this world is the young man who feels, when he takes a job, that he is really going somewhere.

GIVE TOO LITTLE.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke, famous teacher, says the trouble with the present day "smart Alec" variety of writers is that they expect too much of life and give too little. He does not need to confine himself to writers. It's the trouble with most of us. We have somewhere gathered the idea that life is meant to be soft and easy. After all, life is not like being taken to the circus. We are actors in the show. We have to work at the parts.

PERHAPS NOT SO DUMB.

Macaulay, one of the most brilliant Englishmen of his century, couldn't commit the multiplication table to memory. Mathematics proved too much for him. It is said Emerson was never quite certain about nine times seven. This supposed deficiency in mathematics on the part of men who are brilliant in other lines does not always really exist. Some men and women think they are unable to understand mathematics when the truth is they were badly taught. They may have the same capacity that others have, but they have approached the subject in the wrong way.

Many people have more intellectual capacity than they suspect. What they are afflicted with is not dumbness but mental indolence.

A WORLD THINKER.

The need of the hour is for a world thinker. Most of us are like flies that buzz around a very small area —and perhaps get caught or swatted before we even get into the next room. At this state of civilization—and we have quite a considerable civilization at the moment—we need men who do not buzz about a small area but who can look all up and down the long road along which the caravan of history has passed and is passing.

We need men with perspective — world thinkers.

MANY TO SEEK HIGH OFFICES

Many aspirants for office at the state wide primaries next May are expected to announce their candidacies shortly after the holidays. Federal, state and municipal offices will be filled at the general election next November.

Governor Howard M. Gore, former Governor Hatfield and Fred Blue, former state official, are mentioned as possible candidates who will seek the nomination for United States senator on the Republican ticket, while Senator M. M. Neely is expected to have no opposition at the primaries for the Democratic nomination.

Several names have been suggested for the office of governor in major party circles but only one definite announcement has been made.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

MOST PITIFUL CASE

Mr. John S. Flanagan, 703 S. Adams St., Peoria, Ill., says:—In 1922 I had one of the worst cases of inflammatory rheumatism any one could have, covering a period of five years, suffering terribly and constantly, unable to dress or undress myself. Tried everything known to medical science, including two trips to Hot Springs, without relief. Up to this time, had paid out over $10,000, then like a miracle from Heaven, to me I'm not exaggerating in stating that this remedy took me off my crutches in four weeks. Since it cured me, I personally know it has cured over 500 cases in Peoria, many like mine, chronic and given up.

Sebring housewives will have a chance soon to see how the McKinley high school domestic science course is conducted. Miss Bernice Webster, teacher of the subject, has asked the school board for permission to conduct night classes in the study for six weeks, one night each week being devoted to outside study. Sebring schools are asking $31,000 to run during 1928, according to school board members. The sum asked is greater than last year because of additional studies and teachers.

Hot water is lacking for athletic activities at the high school. Superintendent S. H. Pollock told school board members Tuesday evening. According to Pollock the ceramics department uses so much additional water that the 40 gallon tank now in use does not meet the requirements. He advocated the purchase of an additional 25 gallon tank. Board members promised to look into the matter and secure prices.

CHAPTER XIX.
"Sit down, Willie."
"Good enough." The big man lowered himself into a chair and produced a cigar. "What's wrong?"
"Nothing."
"Oh, come now, Chief."
Carmody smiled wryly. "Nothing wrong, exactly," he evaded, "but certain things are taking shape. I want some information, positive information."
"I'm the man who can get it."
"It's Borden—as usual, I understand his company has been spreading out a little too thin. What do you know about it?"
"Plenty. I'm solvent, of course, but they haven't any cash and can't get any. They've let the lease run out on the old plant and the new one isn't finished—some sort of trouble they've had with the contractor. If they clamp down on him, he goes bankrupt and they get lots of satisfaction and no cash. About all they can do is to finance him through on a share-and-share basis, take an original loss, and get going in the new plant right away. But that takes money and they haven't any."
"Sure?"
"Positive. Hartnell at the Fourth National turned them down—and you know damned well they wouldn't have tried Hartnell if they hadn't been so all the others first."
The whisper of Weaver's voice fell soothingly on Carmody's ears.
"Hartnell turned them down?"
"Certainly."
"Why?"
"No security. They've borrowed up to the hilt on the security they've got. The plant is mortgaged for as much as it's worth. Of course it's a temporary crisis. They pull through this and inside of two years they'll all be making new fortunes from it. Trouble is, they've expanded a little too quickly."

"I see. What will they do?"
"I'm blessed if I know. Unless they lend the money themselves. You understand: let the corporation borrow from the individuals. They've all got wads of cash—especially old Merriweather."
"He's pretty canny."
"Right you are. Anyway, that's the situation. You know those bimboes well enough to agree with me that they ain't going to let things go smash. They've sunk too much in it already and their proposition is too thoroughly sound. There may be some last-minute dope—"
"Got it."
"Done with you." The big man's eyes narrowed and his natural whiplash became almost inaudible, giving his words an unduly sinister meaning.
"What's up?"
"A real chance, I think, Willie. I've got a strong hunch that Bob Terry is coming to work here."
Willie Weaver made a soft, hissing sound. "Really?"
"I think so. We can use him, of course. He knows a good deal about prisons and criminals—and he's fond of them; I've been his only friends for three years. And he's in the clear because he's never committed a crime. But best of all, Borden has gone crazy about him. He's living with Borden—and hating him."
"And you're going to let him rake your chestnuts out of the fire?"
"Exactly." Carmody's voice was metallic and precise; he did not dissemble before Whispering Willie Weaver. "Borden is a hard man to reach. He's too damned honest. This seems a combination of circumstances which should lead to something. Terry hating Borden and working for me. His interests and mine are identical. I hope to make him happy by letting him slough Borden—and I get the satisfaction of seeing Borden squirm and knowing that I did it."

"I got you." Weaver's eyes shone with admiration. "And the hunch is that you want to keep in intimate touch with Borden's affairs so as to help this kid out by thinking up a scheme for him. That it?"
"Precisely."
Weaver rose. "I got you. I'll start the gumshoe squad right out—have some good dope for you by tomorrow afternoon." He paused with his hand on the door. "Todd Shannon gets out in a few days."
"I've figured that, too," answered Carmody, dryly. "He's very fond of Bob Terry. Do anything for him."
"Or with him, eh?"
"Yes."
Whispering Willie Weaver shook his head in amusement.
"I'll hand you one thing, Chief—what you want, you get."
"You think so?"
"I know it!"
John Carmody's eyes turned toward the door which led to Kathleen's office. His face was inscrutable and his answer seemed to Weaver unduly emotional.
"God knows I hope you're right, Willie."
Todd Shannon came through the gates, his step as regular and rhythmic as Bob's had been, his eyes glistening eagerly, his tremendous shoulders clearing a path for himself in the press of passengers.
Kathleen and Bob Terry were there to meet him. Their greetings were simple. Kathleen offered her lips and he held her tight against him for a moment. Then he turned and caught Bob's hand in a bone crushing grasp.
"Bob!"
"Todd!"
The trio passed through the waiting room and into a taxi. Kathleen gave her home address, and the car shrieked its way through the late afternoon traffic.
Todd Shannon lay back in the unaccustomed luxury of an upholstered seat. His gray eyes caught the scene of bustle and activity and freedom, and he sighed deeply. "God!" he said reverently "this is good!"

Kathleen covered his hand with hers and a contented smile crossed the lips of the giant ex-convict. He talked not at all, but he understood much which made him happy. He was conscious of the bond which this young man whom he loved and the girl who was a daughter to him. There was no mistaking the occasional glances which passed between them.
But Todd's chief interest was in the boy whom he had last seen through the iron bars of the state penitentiary that hour when he had presented him with the tiny pagoda carved with an old razor blade from a filched bit of cedar.
It was Todd Shannon who saw the change in the lad: the touch of color in the cheeks which had been so pasty and pallid, the brightness of eye, the gradual return of positive characteristics, the straightening of shoulders. And Todd Shannon was glad. He had fathered Bob in prison because he knew instinctively that Bob did not belong there, because he needed shelter from the others in that convict environment. Now it appeared to him that Kathleen had performed the miracle of miracles, that she had keened Bob's interest in life by focusing his interests in herself. The world at that moment, seemed very good to Todd.
They came to the boarding house where Kathleen lived. She had a large room of her own and had engaged one for Todd. In this room a table was set and Kathleen had arranged with the boarding house mistress for the serving of a simple delicatessen supper.
They talked little through the meal. There was a feeling of much unsaid, and tacitly they awaited the peaceful after-meal hour when they could talk undisturbed. And then finally the dishes were cleared away, and Kathleen presented her uncle with a box of fragrant cigars and a pair of carpet slippers. They sat together, Todd in a rocker and Kathleen and Bob opposite on the sofa.

This may be said for installment buying; it has brought back the old practice of house-to-house calls.—Marion Star.
